Wainwright Wants 250 War Savings Pledges For Duration of Conflict

Three Changes Made Council Gilt Edge M.D.

When the last ballot was counted and the results tabulated in the elections held in the M. D. of Gilt Edge No. 422 on Saturday last it was seen that three new members had been elected to office on the Council.

The following is the result of the balloting as tabulated by the returning officer, Mr. Wm. O'Connor:—

For Division 2—
Dave Sutherland (elected) 36
John O'Keefe 24

For Division 4—
Ella N. Arthur elected by acc. For Division 5—
Elgin T. Knott (elected) 35
Francis Traynor 29

Owing, no doubt, to the stormy weather and drifted roads a slightly lower than usual vote was polled.

The War Savings Certificate committee, under the able chairmanship of Mr. J. A. Mackenzie, is busy this week calling on everyone in Wainwright in order that the objective of 250 pledges may be obtained.

Something to bear in mind is the fact that in the recent Red Cross drive this district went "over the top" in the National campaign, and in that case it was voluntary giving, but in the case of the certificates it is only LOANING, and also with good returns later on to those who thus assist the government each month. It is therefore earnestly expected that the objective will be far exceeded.

The question is often asked "Why are 250,000 regular war savers needed?" Regular investment in War Savings Certificates is of prime importance. There are two reasons for this: the first being that systematic savings are of benefit to the individual as well as the government. For through systematic saving a person accomplishes a great deal more financially than through sporadic, casual saving. The government, of course creates the largest sum invested as a result of systematic and persistent saving.

The second vital reason for regular investment in War Savings Certificates is that in a country engaged in war, especially a protracted war in which all the resources of the country must be devoted to production—we must prevent civilian needs from competing with war needs by encouraging savings from current income. The systematic withdrawal of current purchasing power and setting it aside until victory operates against an increase in civilian consumption, which otherwise might compete with war needs in both labor, material and foreign exchange.

Remember, there are three ways a person can buy War Savings Certificates—by pledge, by individual purchase or by War Savings Stamps.

The first method and the most desirable is through one of the regular savings plans devised by the government. Canadians to become regular war savers—that is, the bank pledge plan or the honor pledge plan. The bank pledge plan is the simplest method whereby a person signs an order authorizing his bank to automatically deduct a certain amount each month from his deposit account and forward it to Ottawa for the purchase of War Savings Certificates. With the honor pledge form there is no automatic arrangement. Here a person simply obligates himself to purchase a specified amount of certificates at stated regular intervals or on definite dates.

The second method is for the individual to purchase War Savings Certificates by cash, cheque or money order, by sending in an application either direct to the War Savings committee in Ottawa or through an official agency such as a post office, or a bank or investment dealer.

The third method by which persons can buy certificates is through the purchase of 25c War savings stamps. These stamps provide an installment method of buying a certificate, as 16 25c stamps will purchase a $5.00 certificate.

We might as well face the fact that there are a number of people who have been purchasing stamps on odd occasions, but whose financial position is such that they could well purchase one of the first two methods as outlined and bring their total investments more in line with their wages or incomes.

Before the close of the meeting on Thursday last an organization of canvassers was perfected, and these will be calling every house in town during this week.

They are generously donating their time and energy to help Wainwright "go over the top" in this effort, and our slogan should be the words of the Minister of Finance—"We CAN accomplish by voluntary action much more than our enemy can do by compulsion." And with this in mind, let us all cooperate, put our shoulders to the wheel, and when the canvassers call, PLEDGE what you can—no matter how small or how large PLEDGE something, and thus prove that you are willing to get into the front line at home to help the boys in the front line over there!

It is nice to learn that Mr. Victor Dunsin who has been seriously ill in Edmonton is now improving somewhat and reports state that he has a strong chance of full recovery.

Age Clause Removed In I.O.D.E. Bursary

Announcement was made last week that the age clause has been removed from the regulations covering the award of Imperial Order Daughters of Empire Coronation Bursary. This action was taken in order that students who had been retarded through illness during school years and also those who had worked a year might be allowed to apply. Three awards of $400, payable over three years, are made each year to students, who have passed their Grade XII examinations, who are sons and daughters of men who served overseas in the last war.

RED CROSS NOTES

You're not forgetting the Red Cross bean super are you? It will be served from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Saturday next, March 1st in the I.O.O.F. hall—and will those baked beans taste good this cold weather?

As an example of the splendid work the Red Cross is doing, the following excerpt is given from an article in Canadian Nurse magazine, which was written by Miss Agnes J. McLeod, R.C.A.M.C., formerly of the University hospital, Edmonton, and now on military service in England:—

"We are in a corps which is partly Canadian and partly British, so that we get patients from a great variety of places; and they all seem so appreciative of anything that one does for them. I handle all the Red Cross articles myself, as we do not have a Red Cross worker. Every time I write to anyone I mention the Red Cross because it is perfectly wonderful how many things they keep asking me to do for them. Each time I really want something for the hospital which we can't persuade headquarters to give us from overseas, the Red Cross comes to our rescue."

"I think it is rather important that people at home should appreciate how much hospitals over here are turning to Red Cross for help."

"They keep me supplied with comfort bags, soap, toilet cloths, tooth brushes, tooth powder, combs, mirrors, razors, blades, shaving cream, shaving brushes, chocolate and cigarettes for the patients."

"Then, besides that, I get sweaters and socks, mitts and scarves, helmets, which I give out to the patients who haven't enough when they leave hospital. All our operating room towels, sheets and dressings are from the Red Cross, and when we asked them for another lamp for the operating room we were given one."

"So any time you hear any criticisms of the Red Cross just pass the word on. We just could not manage at all if we didn't have its assistance!"

"So any time you hear any criticisms of the Red Cross just pass the word on. We just could not manage at all if we didn't have its assistance!"

Canada Can Produce All The Butter Required

Increased production of butter, cheese and other milk products is the outstanding wartime challenge facing the Canadian farmer in 1941. It is a real challenge, too, considerably more difficult to meet than almost any other type of farm-production step-up. It did not take long to greatly increase the number of bacon hogs; but cows are different; it will take several years before dairy herds can be numerically enlarged. Besides, cows have to be milked twice a day, and farm help is rapidly drifting away from the farm to participate in other and higher-paid wartime occupations.

Increased production per cow is the only effective way to meet the challenge. Cows are milk-producing factories and, like other types of factories some are more efficient than others. The potential productive power of each, however, is much higher when the raw materials used in the manufacturing process are of the right type and of high quality.

Feeds rich in protein and minerals are essential for high milk production. Thus, special attention should be given this year to adding more than the usual amount of protein and mineral supplements to the ration; this is especially important in districts where the home grown feed is of poorer quality than usual. Phosphorus and calcium are the mineral elements required in greatest amounts, but there are several others, such as sodium, chlorine, iron and iodine, that are also very necessary.

Since cheese is produced largely from the summer milk supply, special attention ought to be given to the fertilizing and management of pastures. The rapid earlier growth of grass on fertilized pastures will permit putting the cows out to grass several days earlier in the Spring; and the grass is the best and cheapest milk-producing feed.

Fertilized pastures also provide better grazing all through the early summer and greatly lessen the chance of a slump in production during the period between the end of flush growth of early summer and the time when second growth alfalfa, red clover, or hay aftermath can be utilized.

Fortunately, there is an adequate supply of pasture fertilizers available in Canada and at prices much lower than those prevailing during the last great war. Also, it is now possible for farmers to have the soil of their pasture fields tested free of charge, so that only those elements of fertility actually deficient in the soil need be applied.

Canadian farms can produce all the butter required to meet the needs of the home market and at the same time furnish sufficient milk to provide for a greatly increased production of cheese for the British market. Early and aggressive planning is necessary, however, to eliminate all factors that may discourage or delay the farmers' plans. Yes, 1941 is a year in which the farmer with a good herd of milk cows can be of real service to his country, and make a little profit for himself.

DAMAGED MAIL IS NOT WASTED BY POSTAL CORPS

Contrary to what one would probably believe, the parcels sent to the men on active service which are unfortunately damaged in transit are not wasted. Mail damaged when ships are attacked at sea is handled by the Canadian Postal Corps headquarters overseas.

Many parcels are sodden masses, with wrappers washed away or the addresses obliterated. Obviously such mail can only be classed as unsalvageable—but it is far from being a total loss. Articles of clothing, canned goods, and similar items where identification of the addressee is impossible, are now being turned over to the Auxiliary Services overseas for distribution to less fortunate soldiers who do not receive the special gifts and extra comforts arriving regularly for most soldiers from relatives at home.

It is generally agreed that such a recipient is the best alternative address possible under the circumstances. CHANGE IN ADDRESS

MAIL FOR TROOPS

W. P. Mulock announces that owing to the recently authorized change in the title of the military forces of Canada, the designation "Canadian Army" will now be used instead of "Canadian Active Service Force (C.A.S.F.)." Mail for soldiers on active service should, therefore, now be addressed as follows:

Mail for Delivery Overseas—The designation "C.A.S.F." is to be omitted and the words "Canadian Army Overseas" substituted therefore, as follows: Regimental No., rank and name, Name and details of Unit (i.e., Company or Section Squadron, Battery, Troop, etc.), Name of Regiment or Branch of Service, Canadian Army Overseas.

For example: K-52037, Pte. John Blank, "B" Company, Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, Canadian Army Overseas.

Note:—If a soldier is overseas the word "Overseas" must appear in the address, but no place name.

For Delivery in Canada—The usual complete particulars—regimental number, rank and name and details of unit and name of regiment or branch of service, and, in addition, the Post Office name of the place in Canada where the soldier is stationed, must be given.

For example: C-12623, Pte. Joseph Wood, No. 7 Field Hygiene Section, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, Debert P. P. O., N.S.

Note:—If a soldier is in Canada, the name of the place at which he is stationed must appear in the address.

The, regimental, numbers, and names given in the examples are, of course fictitious and are merely used to illustrate the correct method of addressing mail.

Until a time as the new method of addressing becomes generally known, mail bearing the designation "C.A.S.F." will as heretofore be despatched to destinations, but the public should immediately adopt the new method when addressing letters, parcels and other mail to members of the Canadian Army, either Overseas or stationed in Canada.

NEW LANCASHIRE FABRIC

For Making Gloves, Slippers, Curtains and Windproof Jackets

Lancashire announces a new cotton suede fabric on the lines of what was once made in Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Its uses are most varied. Already it is being made into windproof jackets and it is hoped to develop the material for curtains and upholstered fabrics to take the place of jacquard velours and plushes from the Continent.

Much new machinery has been installed to produce the suede which is being made in printed as well as in piece-dyed styles. It will thus be welcomed by the makers of both slippers and gloves.

The World of Wheat

H. O. L. Stange,
Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

At the start of this present crop season, it was apparent there would not be sufficient space in country elevators to take the farmers' wheat at the speed at which, in past years, it had been hauled to markets; and so it was necessary that the flow of grain to country elevators should be slowed down somewhat, at least during the early part of the delivery season.

The Canadian Wheat Board was given the task—in addition to its usual duties—of guiding the flow of wheat from farms to country points to accord with the space in country elevators as it became available. This was done by allotting quotas to the farmers in each district. During the first six months two-thirds of the crop has been guided by the Wheat Board in this fashion.

The work was difficult and complicated, for it involved guiding not only the wheat from the farms, but in addition the wheat flow from country elevators to terminals. It also necessitated the suitable distribution of railway cars.

It has all been well done, and with an astonishingly small number of complaints, and so it seems to me that our Wheat Board is entitled to hearty congratulations for performing this exceedingly difficult and complicated task to the satisfaction of all.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Heavy rains in the Argentine will damage small grains improperly stored. Belgium and Norway are seeking breadstuffs from Russia. Quality of Argentine wheat is below normal. Rain in Australia is interfering with seedling. Floods and freezing have been unfavorable for southern European crops.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Argentine corn yields may produce surplus of 450 to 500 million bushels. Broomhall estimates exportable wheat surplus in Argentina at 166 million. Political disturbances in the Orient adversely affect Canadian sales. Australian wheat "carry-over" revised upward. Moisture conditions in U.S. winter wheat area above average.

NAZI VICTIMS are FORCED to GIVE Canadian citizens are ASKED to LEND

We must show the enemy that we can do more by voluntary effort than he can by compulsion

German people are FORCED to provide the money and material for mechanized warfare by means that put the slave-driving builders of the Egyptian Pyramids to shame. That is the Nazi way. Hitler sneers at Democracy, at the voluntary co-operation of free men, as inefficient, out-dated, doomed. He has sworn to destroy it—everywhere.

Can Democracy, can Canada, meet that challenge—by democratic methods?

It means—MONEY. Money to build the plants, buy the material, pay the workers—to produce TO THE LIMIT OF OUR CAPACITY those munitions of mechanized warfare which we CAN produce—money to purchase elsewhere what we cannot make ourselves.

EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD in Canada is able to share in the great task through SAVING and INVESTMENT in War Saving Certificates.

You do not GIVE—you LEND. Your money comes back to You WITH INTEREST.

The second successful 'pick-a-back' landing in aviation history was made at the Macleod air station by L.A.C. J. C. McKeown, of Ottawa, and L.A.C. L. A. Boll, of Jasper, when their planes collided in mid-air as they were coming in for individual landings. Neither pilot knew what had happened until after they landed. Each pilot declared, he "knew something was wrong" and had followed previous instructions, cut his engine and glided in—not knowing they were locked together. The first such landing was accomplished in Australia by a member of the R.A.A.F.

WAINWRIGHT, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 26th, 1941

SAVINGS MEAN BIG MONEY!

In talking to Canadians from London recently, Sir Robert Kindersley gave this country startling information about the very great Britain has carried out a War Savings programme since the start of the war fifteen months ago. The president of the National Savings Committee in England stated that in those fifteen months the small man has saved by means of the savings certificates, defence bonds, savings banks, and a few odds and ends, the sum of six hundred million pounds—almost three billion dollars in Canadian money!

And Sir Robert made an interesting comparison when he revealed to his hearers that subscriptions to large loans during that period of fifteen months was eight hundred and seventy-five million pounds.

In other words, the wage-earners of Old England are contributing a total of mighty close to the total loaned by citizens of means and big corporations.

Even after discounting the vast difference between the population of Canada and the population of Great Britain, Canada's attempt to secure one hundred and twenty million in a year from War Certificate loans suffers badly by comparison.

True, the masses of people in England have a deep incentive to provide every last available shilling for the war effort. Over there they fully realize the threat that hangs over their freedom and their homes.

Any comparison between loyalty of Canadians to an ideal, and the loyalty of an Englishman to the same ideal is odious. Canada has shown and will show that it is ready to sacrifice all for the retention of a free democracy. But it might not be out of the way to observe that if the

SUGGESTS A BOYCOTT

The Editor:—
Dear Sir:—I recently read an editorial headed "Ban this publication" (The Saturday Evening Post), and a letter from a reader endorsed this suggestion.

Canadians have a more effective way of dealing with such publications—if they will use it!
Barring such newspapers and magazines from sale in Canada will not greatly worry them. These publications obtain their revenue from advertising, not from circulation. The proportion of their circulation in Canada is small as compared to total circulations.

Canadians can attack these publications through their advertisers—hit them where it will be effective. Most products advertised in these publications are on sale in Canada. If Canadians would make it known to Canadian branches of United States manufacturers that they will refuse to buy products (sold in Canada), if these products are advertised in or through publications in the United States (or advertised in other publications owned by the same publishers) these anti-British "rags" would soon change their tune. Stick the boycott into them; don't prick them with a pin!

This means, of course, that Canadians should be allowed to obtain the offending publications and read their advertisements to know what NOT to buy.

CANADIAN

NOT OUR BATTLE ONLY.

His Excellency, the Governor-General of Canada, at addresses at Toronto on January 20th, 1941, said: "We are fighting not only our own battle for our own freedom. There are millions of people throughout the world and especially in occupied Europe, looking to us and to us alone for their deliverance. Never have we shouldered such an immense responsibility; never has so much depended upon how we acquit ourselves. Let us have no craven fear of being but let us gird ourselves and steel our hearts and minds, and our eyes and ears to all mankind that we have been as great as in this hour of trial; and let us pay the debt we owe to our fathers that begat us by ensuring that our children, and all those who now suffer humiliation and defeat, will be beholden to us for their salvation, their freedom and their civilization."

THE ROYAL AIR FORCE

WE race with death—
Across the silver heights—
And death is swift
And death does not forget!
Can we not hear his winged whippers yet
Of scarlet passing and the timeless night;
Of dust and darkness terror tears and fire?

Think not we flee from death who mounting higher
Strive for the sun-sweet halls where heroes throng
High in the realms where ancient glories are,
We'll chain our feet purser to a star
And make of death a splendour and a song!

Mr. E. Goddard has been very ill for the past two weeks. We wish him a speedy recovery.

The election of councillors took place on Saturday. Will be able to tell you whether Frank Traynor or Elgin Knott was victorious in our next notes.

Be sure and attend the card party and dance at the schoolhouse on the 26th.

A large number of people in this district have had real bad colds and some an attack of the flu.

We sure had a lovely snowstorm but surely it isn't going to drift up and fill the roads again to stop car travel!

Mr. and Mrs. I. Leduc are business trippers to the city this week.

EDGERTON

The annual bonspiel was the main topic of last week to all interested. No less than 17 rinks participated, eight of them local. Visiting rinks walked off with most of the top awards, but many of the other prizes were won by local rinks and all we hear the latter are well satisfied with everything. As in previous years, all players were entertained at a banquet which was held at the Laurie hotel last Wednesday night.

The waiting room at the station was filled to overflowing last Wednesday when more than 20 people took advantage of the excursion fare to the city.

Last week's cold snap petered out quite nicely by Friday afternoon, following a fresh snowfall Friday morn, but it was only a brief lull, for it returned with renewed vigor on Saturday, accompanied by shrieking winds that continued for well over 48 hours. Is it just a sample of what is in store for us during the acknowledged "windy month"? We hope not—but a month is only four weeks; so what?

Mrs. Don Pawsey returned on Thursday last from her rush call to Edmonton, and reports that daughter Ruth is now recovering rapidly from her serious illness of two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kelly motored to Edmonton on Saturday to be with their daughter Kathleen, who celebrated her 21st birthday anniversary that day. Incidentally we are informed that the car was groaning under a load of gifts and an assortment of home-cooked delicacies for the occasion. Congrats. Kathleen!

Mysterious noises emanating from the roof of the post-office during the sorting time prompted us to enquire as to the why and wherefore! The result was that we were allowed behind the scenes to watch the recently installed cancelling machine in action. It certainly runs letters through in record time and will no doubt save a lot of wear and tear on the arms of our local post-master. We are sure it is a wonderful age—or it would be if there were no axis sweet hearts! to spoil it!

P. S. Pawsey, who carried on during the bonspiel (both as skip and M. C.) with a very heavy cold, was forced to go to bed on Friday feeling very much the worse for wear. We hope he will soon be up and around again.

Mrs. Tom Scott took a few days away from the city and visited here with her husband. It will be remembered that she was forced to earlier move to Edmonton in order to be nearer her physician for insulin treatments. We must say that she looks a lot better than when we saw her several months ago.

Norman Miles roared into town on Sunday evening after making the round trip to Calgary. That big truck seems to stick at nothing, or is it the owner's driver?

We are very sorry to hear that Mrs. George Sawyer is suffering from a severe attack of measles. From what we learn, most adults find the disease a lot harder to put up with than the youngsters do! All our sympathies, Bessie.

Sheepskin Flats

We are glad to hear that David Gardiner is home again from the hospital.

The Gilt Edge guild held their usual monthly meeting on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. A. Balmer.

The annual school meeting was held in the schoolhouse on Thursday afternoon.

The Triangle Y.P.S. held a meeting in their school on Monday last. They are asking for more of the young people to join them.

There was a good crowd at the card party and dance on Friday.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK IN FEATURE FILM

Robert Fulton is known as the inventor of the steamboat, and some of the facts leading to the launching of the invention are shown in the film "Little Old New York" showing at the theatre for the week end.

Criticism days are back again as the story opens with inventor arriving from England with his boat back in 1807. After getting financial backing his assistants almost run out on him, but are persuaded to stay by the wiles of the inventor's daughter who of course furnishes the love angle of the plot.

Howard King the director and Raymond Griffith producer have combined to give us a picture which has delighted thousands of audiences. It should be seen this week end at the local playhouse.

BRITAIN HANG ON

(By M. C. Crowds, Margaret Harbor, N.S.)

Hang on old Britain firm and strong And do not be dismayed;

Your colonies are at your side With all their strength and aid

You've stood the test in many wars When foes their swords laid down

Your mighty guns will crush the Hun They'll never steal your crown

Those nations by the wayside fell, Those now they have no home

And left you battling for your life To win the war alone!

Cheer up old Britain show your might To a relentless foe—

Who would your sacred shores invade Your homes to overthrow

I cannot drive a monstrous tank Too old to join the fight;

Yet I can aid this glorious cause—I'll add my "widow's mite."

For right and justice will prevail To us we'll all agree

Trust in the One that rules the world For FINAL VICTORY!

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS IS BEING CONSIDERED

LONDON—Examination of prisoners of war is under way in Canada. Great Britain and Germany with a view to repatriation of those unable to take further part in the war.

Under the International Red Cross convention of 1929 any prisoner can demand an examination by a medical commission composed of three doctors, two of them neutral. The prisoner is entitled to be repatriated if the majority opinion decides that he is unable to serve again as a combatant.

A commission has been established in Canada to examine German prisoners evacuated from Great Britain. It is not expected to sit long as the majority of them are believed to be fit.

The procedure of exchange is up to the International Red Cross after all reports have been received.

VALE COUNCIL REPT. YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

The following was the report on the activities of the Council of Vale municipal district for the ended on December 31st last.

It has been the custom of your Council, over a period of years, to submit to the ratepayers at their annual meeting a report of their activities during the previous year. It is therefore with much pleasure that this summary of the business transacted on your behalf is now presented.

The already-elected councillors in office entering the year's work were A. Tredwell, div. 2, A. P. Jerrard, div. 4, W. Castle, div. 5. Divisions one and three were open for election in 1940, when both previous representatives were returned to office by acclamation, these being A. E. Nelson, div. 1, and F. Currier, div. 3. O. J. Gould was returned unopposed as representative on the Wainwright hospital board.

At the first meeting of the Council in March, 1940, W. Castle was re-elected as reeve, with A. Nelson as deputy-reeve. D. Pawsey as continued to act as secretary, and the auditor was all business as previously. Weed inspectors were appointed in the several divisions and the usual number of appointments made to other offices.

During the year no vacancies occurred in any office, and generally speaking all business in connection with council work has proceeded in a satisfactory manner.

While it has been the aim of your Council to endeavor to administer the affairs of the district to the best advantage, it was thought advisable on framing the budget at the first regular meeting to continue the municipal rate of taxation at the same figure, viz. 10 mills, which has been the levy for the past few years. This mill rate on the basis of the new assessment which came into force in 1940, produced approximately $4000 less revenue than in 1939, the present assessment having dropped to the extent of $40,000. The allocations made for public works out of the amount levied, was set on the basis of 4 mills and the divisional apportionments in these amounts have been expended on roads. It may be as well in this period of the report to intimate that Council has of late been giving considerable thought to the matter of purchasing or renting more adequate road equipment than this district has access to at the present time. Over the last ten years the expenditure of approximately $4,500 yearly has been made on roads throughout the district, and the Council, like many of the ratepayers, have come to the conclusion that value, or anything approaching it, has not been received for the sums expended in the aspect of the carage has been realized by Councils of adjacent districts also, and the advantage of the use of proper machinery in some of these districts referred to has been very strongly demonstrated. Roads built to a standard grade constructed at a surprisingly low price are of type that would be practically impossible to build with the present machinery possessed by this district. Should the Council contemplate embarking on a road-building programme of this nature, it would not necessarily mean higher taxes, but would probably have the effect of curtailing the bigger proportion of statute labor. With reference to the assistance given to the residents of the district under direct relief it can be stated that assistance of this nature has been kept down to a minimum during the past year. As a average assistance to about three families per month has been maintained, while medical and hospitalization accounts are considerably under the amount spent in 1939. It will again be your privilege later in the meeting to discuss some type of health assistance. This matter has received some consideration from Council since the last ratepayers' meeting, but much as they would like to see something of this nature inaugurated it was found that a considerable burden of added taxation would be needed to bring any scheme of this nature into effect.

Reference was made in the last annual report to arrears of taxes under consolidation agreements. In the majority of cases these have proved of great assistance to ratepayers in liquidation of delinquent taxes, and it is hoped that those involved will continue every effort to keep same in good standing until completion. As a temporary measure last winter Council agreed to allow the secretary to maintain a temporary office in the Village of Edgerton. The convenience in handling office work from that point, particularly in regard to postal and banking facilities, being very apparent Council decided to establish permanent office quarters at that point. The municipal office has therefore been moved into the Village and the secretary has arranged a domicile there.

The regulation asked for by the Wainwright school division board was equivalent to 13 mills of the assessed value of the area contained therein. Since this was the largest requisition asked for in the district Council thought it advisable to strike a levy for this amount only in excess of the requisition by one mill in place of the two mills that had been added in the past. Proviso school division board also asked a requisition in excess of previous years and Council agreed to also make the levy in the area at the margin of one mill less rate than on former occasions. Fortunately sufficient collections have been made in both cases to meet requisitions of these two school districts, but Council feels that care must be exercised in this connection and all possible precaution taken to avoid the striking of too low a levy and endangering the district thereby. It is gratifying to note that the interest rates during 1940 ($12.97) hit a new low on school borrowings that have been steadily decreasing since 1931, when the sum of $19,000 was paid out in this connection.

Collections pertaining to both Proviso and Wainwright hospital districts have been well up to average and a substantial balance carried forward is noted in both cases. This year your Council has been able to finance quarterly instalments of requisition without resorting to borrowing. The "free hospitalization scheme" as instituted throughout the Wainwright area within this municipal district has again worked out very satisfactorily and it is suggested that a plan of this nature might be successfully launched throughout the Proviso area.

In looking back over the last few years we feel that the Council has been particularly fortunate in being able to administer its business in a financially sound manner. It fully realizes that it is only with the support of the individual ratepayer that this state of affairs can continue. May we earnestly ask you through these difficult and dangerous times to continue to co-operate with your local government, and by so doing it is believed you will in a measure be throwing your necessary weight into the struggle that is now taking place for the survival of what we all treasure so much, our "personal liberties."

On Friday last the pupils of division 2 Blessed Sacrament school entertained the various grades of elementary, intermediate and high school by an interesting programme consisting of a series of lantern slides in color.

The motive of the youthful entertainers was to raise funds with which to purchase War Savings Certificates. The ambitious youngsters were busy previous to the show, selling tickets, the largest number being disposed of by Florence Stinert and Doris Lewis. The members of the executive, President Gwan Hoffman and Secretaries, Francis MacKenzie are to be congratulated on the efficient manner in which they conducted the affair.

The door prizes (Savings Stamps) were presented by Rev. Father Rhmann to Audrey Jeffers and Maud Brassard.

We hope that the children who are working with such interest and enthusiasm will continue to assist in their small way, Canada's great war effort.

NEW APPOINTMENT AS LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL

Appointment of W. B. Gray, K.C., solicitor to the attorney-general's department, as acting legislative counsel, was announced by the provincial government on Friday last.

Necessity for the appointment resulted from the prolonged illness of R. A. Smith, K.C., incumbent of the post, who has been on sick leave since January 28, 1940, and who is a patient in a B.C. hospital.

With the legislative session opening tomorrow (Thursday), heavy and tedious work devolves upon the legislative counsel in the matter of drafting bills for submission to the house, re-drafting amendments and generally being available for consultation on legal matters.

After many years of practice in Southern Alberta, Mr. Gray was appointed solicitor to the attorney-general's department in 1924. Since that time he has handled many important cases for the government, including several appeals to the Privy Council.

MARRIAGE

CHAPTER XI

"Oh," said Elsie. She felt as she did the day when she went to meet Mark. She was saying all the wrong things, and she couldn't seem to stop. It was beginning to dawn on her that it would have been better not to come tonight. She steadily kept Lucy out of the conversation but she had never been so shamelessly conscious of another woman before.

"Shall I ring for coffee and a liqueur for you?" asked Mark.

"No, darling," said Elsie. She had come straight to them from a dull dinner at her mother's.

But looking at her as she gazed pathetically into Mark's face, Lucy could have sworn she hadn't eaten for at least a week, and was refusing, to spare even the servants unnecessary trouble. She had never before, she thought, met anyone who managed to convey so much by what she didn't say.

Alice and another maid came in carrying the table away. And presently there was a sudden rush of feet, and laughter in the big hall, and the party burst in, headed by Valerie.

"Darling," cried Valerie, "may we dance now? Or must we wait a while? What shall we do?"

"Of course you shall dance," Lucy laughed. "Whenever you're ready."

She straightened a flower on Valerie's shoulder, and looked at Elsie, who argued at the maternal quality of the small scene. She could hardly bear the implication of the confidence and affection between the two. Neither did she miss the sudden drop of Valerie's young mouth as she followed the pressure of Lucy's hand and saw Elsie, whom she had over-

Sixty Years of Progress

Sixty years of faithful and valuable service to Canada form the background for the sixtieth anniversary of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in mid-February.

On February 15, 1881, the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald granted a charter for the building by a private company of a railway to the Pacific Coast. Two days later, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company was organized on an official basis and a glorious new era of Canada's history had begun.

The Canada of 1881 was an infant country, its sparsely settled portions separated from each other by dense wilderness. Confederation itself was in danger because of lack of communication between provinces. Railway connection with British Columbia had been promised but in ten years the work accomplished had been negligible.

The story of the building of the transcontinental line can be summed up in the statement that it was completed in half the time called for in the charter, with a pitifully small subsidy considering what had been granted in other places, and in face of the most bitter of political opposition. Time and again the whole project, including every cent of the builders' personal fortunes, seemed lost. The growth of the Canadian Pacific Railway and of Canada represents sixty years of untiring co-operation, each aiding in the benefit of the other's strength and prosperity.

In 1881, Canada was a country with 4,324,810 population, possessing total export trade of $55,944,701 and import trade of $30,482,329. Its field crops were worth $155,277,427, its dairies $12,745,676,968. In the last year of record, Canada's estimated population was 11,315,000, exports totaled $1,178,954,000 and imports $1,081,350,000. Field crops were worth $451,225,000, dairies $217,716,029 and manufactures $3,237,681,566.

The Canadian Pacific Railway's growth in the same period has been equally amazing. There was practically nothing in 1881. Now the company has 17,160 miles of rail lines in Canada, 55 ocean, coastal and lake steamships, hotels with a total of 5,284 rooms as well as summer lodges, 1,767 locomotives and 82,714 pieces of rolling dared what was coming next.

"You mustn't ever think we don't appreciate all your services here," cooed Elsie. "All of us—I mean, Mark's intimates—really how hard you must have worked. And what it must have cost you."

"Cost me?" asked Lucy. She felt they were getting nearer now to the main idea.

Elsie opened her large eyes to their widest. "But of course! Although you are old enough to know what you are doing. I mean as far as your reputation goes. When a woman comes to live with a fascinating widower and a little girl—"

"And a housekeeper and a staff of servants," said Lucy. She could feel her temper slipping, and she gripped it closer.

"Forgive me if I tell me the exact what you mean," suggested Lucy.

"Oh my dear you mustn't be annoyed with me. Of course what you do to your own reputation is your own affair. But it hurts—some of us—just a little—"

She laid an appealing hand over her heart—"I mean to hear whippersnappers over lunch and bridge tables—Gossip is a hard thing for a baby like Valerie to live down."

Lucy got up. Except that her eyes looked almost black in the pallor of her face, nobody could have told that she was almost faint with rage.

"Excuse me," she said. She stood for a moment looking down and wondering. Just what purpose was served by the Elsie's in life? The party seems to be breaking up.

The youngsters crowded around her, telling her how marvellous it had been, begging her to come to their parties, swamping her with frank, young approval. They got their wraps and headed, chattering, for Chiltern and the front door.

Elsie retrieved her ermine coat, slipping her bare arms into it and trailing her black velvet to where Mark stood, the center of a small knot of girls.

"Thanks, Mark, darling, for everything," she put her hand in his, managing to suggest delicious, unspoken pleasures. Mark held her hand for a second, and put it gently down, looking at a trifle confused. "If you could, you, like an angel, drive me home? Of course, I gave Harmon the evening, I couldn't keep him on Thanksgiving—" She stood like an angel of gentle consideration.

"Don't it shame the way the luck runs? My car's having a motor operation. Tell you what—we'll tuck you in with a bunch of the kids that Catiel is taking home."

"How simply sweet!" said Elsie.

But she looked anything but sweet later, wedged in between two bright young things, with Rex and a riotous boy on the fold-up seats before her, and shrill reminiscences of the night filling the car.

Valerie burst into Lucy's bedroom late the next morning to find Lucy pale and listless over a practically untouched breakfast tray. Mark had insisted on holidays, so lessons were off for a week.

"When you didn't come down for breakfast I thought something must be wrong," cried Valerie. "I ran up as soon as I had finished. I was going to swim in the Kenwood's indoor pool, but I won't go now. It won't take me a minute to telephone—"

Lucy drew her down and kissed her. "Of course you'll go, silly, she said. She tried to speak brightly. "There's nothing the matter, unless it's late hours last night."

"You look as if you hadn't slept at all!"

"I didn't know it was as bad as that. I must be a mess."

"You know I didn't mean that kind of looks! Did the party tire you? If it did we'll never have another—"

"I adore parties," said Lucy. "And yours was almost the nicest I ever knew."

"Ours," corrected Valerie. "There wouldn't have been any party if it hadn't been for you."

"Oh, the planning was part of the fun. You see I have some letters to write. And there's something—well, rather important. I have to think about a bit. You know, one of those things—"

She rattled on, thanking heaven that Valerie didn't know. "So I thought I'd just indulge in a lazy morning—"

"Rather important," repeated Valerie. She stood quite still staring at Lucy. Then her eyes grew startled, and she ran over and dropped to the end of the chaise longue. "I don't like it, somehow. Lucy there would not be anything—I mean, nothing is going to take you away from us?"

Lucy swung her feet to the floor and threw a sudden arm around the girl. "Would it make such a difference?" she asked. She was almost frightened at the change in Valerie's face.

"But you're joking!" she cried. "Why you belong here. You belong to my father—and father—and me! There wouldn't be anybody who has more right to you. Lucy! are you crying?"

"Crying? Certainly not! Would I cry because a popular young woman with heaps and heaps of friends is thinking she can get along without me? What do you think I am?"

Valerie kissed her and went out.

Lucy was glad to see that the fear had faded from her face.

She sat until lunch time trying to think the thing through. She had known since her first night at Wide Acres that Elsie was her enemy. Of course, the reason was plain enough. Elsie wanted Mark, and meant to get him if she could.

There was Lucy told herself, only one thing to do: be willing to take whatever course was best for them all and then wait for events to show her what it was.

She took a shower, and dressed, covered her pallor with faint rouge, went down to lunch and spent a long blissful afternoon with Mark, playing squash.

Lucy was not the only person to lose sleep because of Valerie's party. As they rolled out of the Wide Acres garage, Elsie insisted that Catiel must drive her home first. She untangled herself from the scrambled occupants of Mark's car, dismissed Catiel, and let herself into her apartment in a rage.

Ballo, her maid, had fallen asleep waiting for her. Elsie woke her furiously, and the woman after listening to her for ten minutes, gave notice and walked out.

THESE ARE LEMON DAYS

So many people have learned the value of lemons when head colds are common that "flu days" are really "lemon days." Hot lemonades are right now being taken by hundreds of thousands of men and women and this will continue until the present mild epidemic has disappeared.

But the versatile lemon lends itself to more than this. Appetizers, cocktails, sauces, salads, dressings, pies, frostings, puddings, and cakes all call for the use of lemon. Here are two recipes that you will find excellent today—whether there are "colds" in your home or not:

Lemon Celery Victor

1 bunch celery, tender portions, or 3 celery hearts.
Cut in desired lengths (1 to 4 inches). Parboil in salted water for 10 minutes. Drain. Cook 10 to 15 minutes longer in broth made by combining:

1 pint beef broth or consommé
1 teaspoon celery seed.
6 pepper corns
1 bay, dry red peppers
1 teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon sugar
1 large or 2 small Sunkist lemons, cut in thin slices
¼ cup minced pimiento
Marinate until cold. Drain off liquid, retaining spices and lemon slices. Serve as an appetizer or a meat accompaniment.

Lemon Clover Rolls

2 cups flour, sifted
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup shortening
Sift dry ingredients and work in shortening. Add:
½ cup milk, soured with 3 tablespoons lemon juice
Knead slightly. Form dough into small, walnut-sized balls. Place 3 balls in each cup of a greased muffin tin. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 20 minutes. Makes 16-20 rolls.

Sunkist Shortcake

Bake your favorite shortcake as one large cake or as individual cakes. Split white warm and place 4 cups sweetened orange sections between layers and on top. Serve with Shortcake Sauce. Garnish with thin slices of oranges.

Shortcake Sauce

1 cup orange juice
1 cup sugar, or honey to taste
2 tablespoons grated orange peel
Blend well. This sauce is good on waffles and French toast. Serves 6.
The Pennsylvania Dutch housewife is a famous cook. Here are two popular recipes among these food-loving folk. The names may twist your tongue but one taste of the food will certainly whet your appetite.

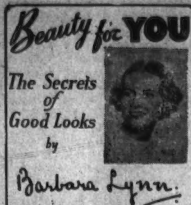

Schultz On Kneep

(Apples and Buttons)
3 lbs. ham
1 quart dried apples
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, well beaten
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon salt

Pick over and wash dried apples. Cover with water and let soak overnight or for a number of hours. In the morning, cover ham with cold water and let boil for 3 hours. Add the apples and water in which they have been soaked and continue to boil for another hour. Add brown sugar. Make dumplings by sifting together the flour, salt, pepper and baking powder. Stir in beaten egg, milk and shortening. Drop the batter by spoonfuls into the hot liquid with the ham and apples. Cover kettle tight and cook dumplings for 15 minutes. Serve piping hot on large platter.

Faschnacht Kucka

(Molasses or Honey Doughnuts)
6 tablespoons molasses or honey
1½ quarts milk
4 quarts flour
2 cakes yeast, dissolved in ½ cup warm water
1 cup butter
4 eggs, beaten
Scald milk and when it becomes lukewarm, mix in 2 quarts of flour, making a smooth batter; add yeast which has been dissolved. Beat together well and allow to stand overnight. Combine the butter and eggs, and cream well. Add the honey and a little of the flour. Beat well and add the remaining flour, leaving enough to dust bread board. Allow time for full rise and then roll out and cut in form of doughnuts. Let rise again and fry in hot cooking oil or fat.

Beauty for YOU

The Secrets of Good Looks by Barbara Lynn

HANDS UP

No woman needs to have ugly or reddened hands or arms. A little daily care will be well-repaid in the possession of well-groomed and graceful hands and arms.
First the arms. If you have heavy or fatty arms, try a brisk pinching massage, using talc powder. For angular arms, massage nightly with turtle oil.

Arms should be white and softly rounded. When you cream your face at night, dab a little into your elbows; this helps to smooth them. Dark, rough elbows will respond to a nightly scrub with a bland olive oil soap and warm water; apply peroxide and finally massage with cream.

Apply lotion generously to your hands, and once a week give them a coating of lemon juice. Lemon helps to whiten the hands and will usually remove spots. You can make an excellent hand lotion with equal parts of spirit of camphor and glycerine.

It is a splendid notion to wring out a pair of cotton sleeping-gloves in hot boracic, pull a pair of warm wooly gloves over the top to keep the heat in, and sleep in them all night. A trifle uncomfortable, but well worth-while.
Bear in mind that the basic rule for the hands and arms, as it is for the face, is—cleanse thoroughly. Keep them out of hot water; use lukewarm. Wash regularly with gentle palmolive soap; it is so cleansing and really helps to beautify the skin.

HAIR DYE DANGEROUS!

A case tried before Mr. Justice Stabile, at the Manchester assizes illustrates the danger from certain hair dyes. A gentleman was accustomed to have his hair dyed at the shop of a lady hairdresser, and one day she told him of a new dye called "meleoron," said, by the accompanying advertisement to be effective but of which she disclaimed any experience. He agreed to its use and contracted a severe dermatitis. The dye consisted of a powder and a fixative; the latter contained 10 per cent of chromic acid instead of the four per cent it should have contained. The customer sued the hairdresser, the distributors and the manufacturers. The learned judge decided that the customer had a valid case against the hairdresser, even though she did not recommend the dye, and apparently had applied it carefully and according to directions. He held that where there is an agreement to pay partly for services and partly for a supply of goods, there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be fit for the purpose for which they are intended.

To succeed against the distributors, his Lordship said, the customer had to prove carelessness, the existence of a duty, and breach of that duty. He was satisfied that the distributors had been careless. They were dealing with a manufacturer whom they hardly knew, and the stipulation for four per cent of chromic acid was only verbal. They never tested the dye; and lastly they described it as harmless. Besides, the distributors owe a duty to the customer. Although the initial mistake was made by the manufacturers, the negligence of the distributors did the damage, for they had neglected to apply tests and they represented that their hair dye, unlike every other, was not dangerous. It was dangerous; and the distributors fell under the principle that a person who puts abroad a dangerous article must be unusually careful.

The dye was like a wolf in sheep's clothing, or a sheep which the distributors had made as dangerous as a wolf. His Lordship gave damages against both the hairdresser and the distributors. He did not consider a claim against the makers because they had gone into liquidation and could not be found. All of which urges one to recommend that it is safer for the grey-headed old beau to use soap and warm water and to leave dangerous dyes alone; because after all what handsome lady is deceived by a dyed head of hair?

THE QUEEN'S THISTLES

Thistles plucked from the Queen's birthday have been used for the design of one of the new table services on which British potters are now working overtime to meet the Dominion's demand.

"Glands Thistle" is rivaling favorites from over the Border like "Old Chelsea," "Lovecraft Bouquet," "English Pansy," "Old Leaf Spray," and "Rosetime."

Canada is leading the Dominion's demand for designs and colour schemes in the tradition of the home country.

Eccentricities have gone out of fashion.

Tableware is sent to Canada in large composite sets appropriate for the three meals of the day. Tureens are deep and so are "side dish" saucers which follow the Victorian shapes. In 1939 Canada alone bought from Britain two and a half million dollars worth of such goods and since the beginning of last year the largest maker of them has increased exports by 76 per cent, despite a visit from Goering's Luftwaffe.

THIS YEAR'S XMAS CARDS

The Christmas cards which the peoples of the British Commonwealth will send to one another next December are already keeping hundreds of artists and designers busy in Britain amid the bombs, according to the managing director of the famous firm of Raphael Tuck Ltd., in London, Eng.

The first order for them arrived in England on December 29th. It was from Australia. Traditionally, Australia orders first. New Zealand is next. Then in February, comes Canada and the United States. In March, South Africa, India, South America and the West Indies follow on.

Tastes, naturally, vary with climates and customers. South America's card are warm and vivid in coloring, and, of course, in Spanish or Portuguese as well as English. There are no snow scenes.

For India there is a special range appealing to each of many classes with snow for the hill stations. In the Dominions and Colonies there is a definite preference for sketches or photographs of old corners of London, glimpses at Cathedral cities, and pictures of English villages.

The Empire demand for Christmas cards from England was better for the second Christmas of the war than for the first when it was remarkably good. The help of the Paper Controller in releasing new materials will make the present year even better, in the opinion of one of the leading producers.

NEWS & VIEWS OF TOWN AND DISTRICT

BORN.—To Mr. and Mrs. E. Patterson of Greenhills, at the Wainwright municipal hospital on Feb. 18th a girl.

Today is Ash Wednesday and the beginning of Lent.

A report of the school concert that took place on Tuesday will be given in our next issue.

Mrs. Billy Fish arrived last week from Vain. She plans to reside in town during her husband's absence. Mr. Fish has had to report to Brandon for duty there.

We regret to learn that Mrs. M. Haynes, of Greenhills, has had to become a patient at the hospital owing to a heart attack.

Miss M. McBride who is leaving town shortly was the guest of honor at a party of her friends entertained by Miss E. Fish last week end.

Mrs. Leggett accompanied Mrs. Kelly, of Edgerton, to the city last week when the latter lady was an operative patient in an Edmonton hospital.

If you need fire insurance a small amount of premium will provide all you may lose when a fire or an accident occurs. Don't delay; let Joe Welch arrange this for you.

We learn that Mrs. Jeff Taylor underwent an operation in Edmonton last week. Her mother Mrs. Dundas was with her in the city.

Mrs. J. Kluck (nee Violet Edwards) was in the city last week and on her return spent a couple of days with Mrs. W. Knowles before returning to her home in Edgerton.

The president of the local Red Cross Mrs. O. Hannah and the convenor of the work committee Mrs. C. T. Lally, attended the recent annual convention of that organization in Edmonton.

Following a day or two in the city Mrs. R. Rudd returned home on Saturday.

At the regular meeting of Adeline Rebekah lodge held last week Mrs. M. Lismore was installed as N.G. and Mrs. M. Mitchell as R.S. by Mrs. W. Huntingford, D.D.P.

SILK OF GLASS

Glass silk is now being sent overseas from Great Britain in increasing quantities. The manufacturer exported 250 per cent. more of it last year than in 1939.

It is used for saving heat. Not less than 75 per cent. of the heat created by millions of tons of fuel is wasted. This specially manufactured glass silk is perhaps the most efficient material for stopping such wastage in domestic equipment like boilers and pipes and stoves.

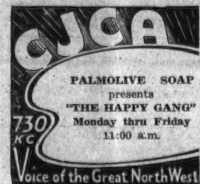

In the last few months, this glass silk insulation material, which is unaffected by temperatures up to 900 degrees Fahrenheit has been shipped from Great Britain to South Africa and Calcutta in the form of blankets; as mattresses to East India (for railway locomotives) and also to Northwest India (for insulating petrol wagons); in rigid sections to New Zealand, Trinidad and Portugal, and in sheets for separating the positive and negative plates of electric accumulators to Canada, New Zealand, Australia and Eire.

Various other glass silk products have been recently despatched to Arabia, and the whole of the insulating material required for the new Bulawayo hospital and nurses' home in Rhodesia will consist of this British-made glass silk.

TWO SOWS AND TWO BOARS; all registered Yorkshire, for sale; six months old.—B. C. Carpenter, Kinross, Alta. 29-2

It is expected that on Sunday next, the Rev. A. Walker, of Lloydminster, will take the services at St. Andrew's Presb. church—and also at Gilt Edge if the roads will allow. The pastor, Dr. Stevens, will exchange pulpits with Mr. Walker.

If we are totally destroyed your home and its contents today could you re-build and re-furnish without reducing your standard of living? See Joe Welch, and let insurances carry this big risk!

Considerable co-operative shipping of live stock is being done by the Wainwright U.F.A. Something over $14,000 has been distributed for value in cattle and hogs since November last.

We understand that Mr. Roy Le Blanc has rented the Brassard farm for this season.

Make sure you are protected by fire insurance on whatever you own. It may save you lots of regrets at a later date.—Let Joe Welch see to it for you. He insures everything.

Owing to the indisposition of the pastor, Dr. Stevens, the services at the Presbyterian church on Sunday last were conducted by Mr. Gordon Schleck very acceptably.

We are informed that Mr. N. Rickert, our town miller, who has been in Vancouver recently on a visit to his son in the navy, learned while there of the need of an engineer for refrigeration and immediately signed and was posted to the job! His other son, Cecil, is running the mill now.

Mrs. C. Forryan was away to the city for a couple of days last week.

A farewell party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carroll in honor of the Brassard family who are leaving this week for the East.

We learn that Mr. Alex. Gaulin unfortunately got his car in the ditch while driving with his family near Morinville. Although the car was a bad wreck, no one was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Conroy were in Edmonton last week for a few days.

THE DIAL REVIEW
by Walter Dales

I think it is about time that I draw your attention to the fact that CICA, along with the majority of broadcasting stations in Canada and the States will be changing their wave length. So to save you too much wasted time and trouble here is the dope—look for us after March 26th at 930 kilocycles and there'll we be as chirpy as ever!

There will be a lot of cheering by radio listeners, as this change will do away with all the interference that you have complained of for the past few years.

With "Amos 'n' Andy" establishing themselves as one of the most popular heard in Northern Alberta, here are some of the highlights on the life of Charles Correll—the "Andy" of the team. Charles is the son of a Southern family who grew up in the North. When young Correll graduated from school times were not good so he learned stenography in high school and promptly got a job. He says he is glad that he did, because today he does all the typing of the scripts the team uses. They write their own scripts in complete privacy, and insist on similar circumstances for their broadcasting, as they feel that any outsiders would tend to make them forget the vivid picture they are creating for listeners in millions of homes; and if you doubt just how vivid that picture is, just tune in the boys every night at 8:15 and you'll be an Amos 'n' Andy fan if you are not one already!

If you like thrills and excitement then you can't do better than catch "Exclusive story" at 9:30 on Monday Wednesday and Friday evenings. It brings you an inside picture of some of the adventures experienced by a news reporter who is out after out-of-the-ordinary news stories. Make a point of listening to this feature, and you'll find a programme that'll keep you on the edge of your chair until the concluding line.

With the immortal words of Mr. Churchill—"Come then, let us to the task..." another War Savings programme will be introduced at 8:15 p.m. Actuality broadcasts from all over Canada depicting the Dominion at war—dockyard workers—factory men—stevedores and housewives, from Charlottetown to Victoria, tell what they are doing to help in the cause of freedom. Here is another programme that you will do well to list among those to which you must listen. A programme that tells you just how you can serve by saving, and just what is being done with your money.

Radio today seems to be offering all kinds of money to its listeners, and another $200 has found its way into the hands of an Edmontonian through the "Parade" programme. If you are interested in this sort of money, and who isn't?—listen to "On Parade" next Thursday night at 6:30. "Melodies for you" has played a lovely tune for Mr. Sias, of Onaway as this gentleman has found himself $100 richer through knowing something about this Canada of ours. Check your knowledge of Canada and enter the contest on "Melodies for you" next Wednesday night at 7:30. See you next week—AND SAVE TO SAVE YOURSELF!

COMING EVENTS

The Executive of the Local Red Cross Branch are holding a LUNCHEON SUPPER on Saturday, March 1st, in the L.O.O.F. Hall from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at 30 cents per plate. All are invited, so come and bring the family.
